

September 2, 1998

JEY is here, and does come now to your midst with much love and in the will of our Creator. Be at peace and know that as you have been in a time of study and discussion and understanding, that JEY too, is well aware of your thoughts and does come now to further discuss those things that are of importance to you at this time.

As you begin now a new part of your journey, (and for your information you are indeed beginning a new part of your journey), know that you have an opportunity now as you review the thoughts, the words, the truths that have been given to you, that now they will indeed have deeper meaning for you. You are in complete acceptance of those things that have been spoken and have been given to you. And as you are now able to access that which is a deeper understanding, a more mature understanding spiritually, you will be drawn then, to advise others who come to your presence of those things of truth that will lead them to know more fully the truths of those things of a spiritual nature. It is important that you be able to fully understand the truths that have been given before you attempt to share them with others.

So as this part of your journey begins and you now have an opportunity to assert that which will be the truths that you know, and to assert self in explaining those truths, you will be able to, with confidence, go forth to share the truths as you know them to be.

It is at this point in your journey that you will find it necessary to more fully review all that has been given to you, and thus it is now time for that to begin. You have been given much in the way of truth, much in the way of understanding, and now you have claimed that and it has become knowledge within your own mental self. And so now as your mental self is willing to accept all that has come to you through spirit, you have now gone one step further in your journey that will allow you to be more forceful in helping others to go further in their own spiritual journey.

As you now are able to accept the truths that have been brought to you by not only this one who comes as JEY, but others who have come to your midst-as you have accepted those truths-know that you have grown is spiritual understanding. That is important for each of you. And as you have grown in that understanding, you have then shed from your very thoughts those things that have been an impediment to your life as spirit in body.

And so as you no longer have a need to adhere to many of those false teachings that have crowded your own thinking and understanding, you are free now to look forward to that which will be a more joyful life-a life filled with truth, with love, with understanding. And so as JEY comes at this time it is simply to say to you that those of us who are in the spirit realm do rejoice with each of you as you have awakened to that which is the spirit within you. That which is your spirit has helped you to understand that which you have known all along, and that is the truth that you have now come to know.

JEY would simply ask you to proceed upon this journey with confidence, with knowledge that you understand all that is given to you and all that can be given to you. And so as you meet time after time, and as you review and share those bits of knowledge that have been given to you, accept them in the fullness of their beauty, for indeed they are those things of beauty, they are a gift of spirit for you, and you will find that your life then will take on a deeper, more mature meaning as you journey upon this earth. Do not be fearful of what is to come. Simply know that as you follow the will of the Creator, what is to be will indeed become that which you have known to be prepared for.

And so as you look forward on your journey to that purpose upon the earth in your life, you will accept all that comes to you with thanksgiving. And so JEY would say to you at this time be at peace with where you are, be at peace with who you are and know that the Spirit within you will guide you each day of your life in the times to come.

Go now in love. Amen